

Discover the secrets of the thousand-year-old shibori technique!

Shibori is a Japanese fabric dyeing technique that, through pressures, allows to obtain prints between the parts that are subjected to pressure and the ones that are not. The pressure can be made in different ways (knots, ties, pleats, folds, coiling, seams), which give a specific name to each technique. The results obtained with this printing technique are always amazing. It can be used to decorate your foulards and complements, patchwork pieces, textile works, clothes or household linen.
